

Third Tragedy in Family

Chicago Tribune

Thursday 19 February 1925

The shooting marked the third tragedy in the Minahan family within recent years. N uncle, William E. Minahan, an attorney, perished when the steamship Titanic was sunk in 1912. And, according to reports from Green Bay, the boy's mother was killed by a Chicago and Northwestern train near her home ten years ago. It was never definitely established whether the mother's death was due to accident of suicide.
